

Specialty Transportation and Regulatory Services International S T A R S

Dear Clients & Friends,

During these uncertain times, we want to assure you that we are doing everything possible to continue serving our clients at the highest level. Our organization has always had a non-centralized format, with all of our staff working remotely. Since our inception 10 years ago, our infrastructure has been designed to support remote worksites, allowing our team full, secure access to the files, email, and other services they and our clients need from wherever they happen to be.

Therefore, our business can continue under the existing CDC guidelines of social distancing in the same manner it always has without interruption to our clients. You will still be able to communicate with us in the same ways you always have. We are fully staffed from our remote locations, and our hours remain unchanged.

Furthermore, we are prepared to help our clients any way we can. Not every business is capable of completely shutting its doors and the work must continue in certain cases. If your EHS, regulatory compliance, or transportation employees are unable to work full time during this upheaval due to illness, childcare issues arising from schools being closed, or other causes, we are ready and able to support you as your backup team in the event that you need us. We can help with classification, transportation issues for packages both big and small by any mode, and so much more.

Please call or email me (contact information below) to discuss how we can support your operation. If there is anything we can do to aid your business during this trying time, please do not hesitate to ask. We are your partners and we are here to help you succeed.

Please stay safe and healthy.

Sincerely,

Wendy J. Buckley
